The health of animals impacts our health, it’s everyone’s health. Only a coordinated response across sectors will allow us to bring the number of human deaths from dog-mediated rabies to zero. This year’s World Rabies Day—themed ‘One Health, Zero Deaths’—aims to strongly reaffirm this message.

Read 'Rabies control: a model for One Health collaboration'

Latest News

https://mailchi.mp/woah.org/world-rabies-day-one-health-zero-deaths better global health:
New Tripartite Operational Tools
These tools aim to support countries in the establishment of multisectoral coordination mechanisms and the implementation of surveillance and information sharing systems. [Read more]

Animal health through an economic lens
Much progress has been made on developing methods for estimating the socioeconomic impact of animal diseases at country and global levels. [Read more]

Access to previous issues of the Terrestrial Animal Health Codes
WOAH offers an innovative and structured access to all previous issues. [Read more]

Knowledge
WOAH and rabies
With a fatality rate of almost 100% in humans and animals alike, rabies remains a global threat, killing approximately 59,000 people every year. [Read more]

Free-roaming dogs in Italy and Ukraine
WOAH collaborates on a paper published by Plos One on dog population management through catch-neuter-release and sheltering programmes, providing critical data for informing infectious diseases models. [Read more]

From our network
National Strategic Plan to Control Rabies template
Rabies elimination in Namibia, Goa and Mexico control plan aligned with ‘Zero by 30’ and requirements for WOAH endorsement. Read more

The Global Leaders Group host side event at UN General Assembly on Antimicrobial Resistance Advocating for political leadership on antimicrobial resistance (AMR) in every country and collaborating globally to address the issue through a One Health approach. Read more

Animal health emergency management
The Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations (FAO) releases a manual for the management of operations during an animal health emergency. Read more

Latest Self- Declarations

Events

18-22 November
World Antimicrobial Awareness Week 2022
Campaign Guide for use and sharing.

4 October
Tackling Rabies and Dog Population Management Webinar, 2pm (CET)
Open to all stakeholders
Register here

28 September
World Rabies Day 2022 ‘One Health, Zero Deaths’

23 August
5th meeting of the GF-TADs Standing Group of Experts on African Swine Fever for the Americas
Read more

17 August
WOAH awareness workshop for veterinary paraprofessionals in Zambia
Read more

Help improve our newsletter
E-mail your feedback to: bulletin@woah.org